

Alberta Golf Works – Frequently Asked Questions

Why haven't I heard of AGW?

Since 1974, we've been building golf clubs under AGW name brand. We're committed and passionate about providing the highest quality equipment for all types of golfers and wallets.

At AGW, the majority of our exposure is free. We receive constant endorsements from happy and satisfied golfers who play AGW. The top Professional Fitters in the world recognize AGW as the best quality and best performing Custom ProLine. The top independent testing companies continually give us awards and top reviews. These reviews and awards are a direct result of performance and quality, not sizzle. Our media coverage has been extremely heavy given we don't advertise. AGW is played on every professional tour and in every category of clubs, except putters. Even our tour presence is free: the tour players playing our clubs do so by choice, not for pay. AGW's main focus continues to rely on word-of-mouth endorsements and concentrate on providing the best performing equipment.

How do I know if clubfitters are qualified?

Most reputable Component companies will only sell their product to reputable dealers that have demonstrated knowledge, combined with integrity of their products, and fitting techniques. The Dealer in question should provide you with names of organizations, and their personal, and staff respective certification through that organization. Always check to see if the Dealer is up to date on technology that is provided through their suppliers, and or Golf Shows etc.

Are Touring Professionals Playing AGW?

AGW is on every tour, in every category of clubs (except putters). The touring professionals are playing AGW because they truly love AGW clubs, not because they are getting paid to play AGW.

Because we are not paying for endorsements, we cannot legally use any tour players' names to forward our cause. Our focus has been providing the best golf equipment that money can buy rather than buying the Tour. The result...AGW is the best quality and best performing golf equipment on the market.

Do AGW clubs conform to USGA Rules of Golf?

Yes. Because AGW is designed for the avid player, it is imperative that we provide clubs that comply with USGA Rules: and we do. We believe that to further the integrity of the game, everyone should play by the Rules!
